

Second Annual Restroom Reader Poetry Contest

A light hearted ditty that is clever and witty, will get a you a prize and leave you sitting pretty. Submit your poem, and don't delay, the sooner the better and you'll be on your way, to fame and fortune who could ask for more, than to have your poem published on the bathroom stall door.

The contest is open to any reader of this publication. Entries must be submitted by April 14th to wakib@uwc.edu or you can drop them off at the library circulation desk.

A $15.00 Barnes and Noble gift card for first place and $10.00 HUB gift cards for second and third place.

"You're never completely ready. It just becomes your turn." - Ty Murray

Student art work on display in the library computer lab

Students in Prof. Stephanie Copoulos-Selle's Fall 2008 Introduction to Painting and Intermediate Oil Painting class, have graciously allowed the library to display their work in our Library Instruction room. They are beautiful paintings that brighten up the otherwise drab walls. Stop in to take a look. The participating artists are:

Samantha Landry
Brandon Porter
Aubry Eggers
Lauren Larralde
Brandy Lynch
Brittney Giessel
Melissa Yets
Jim Krotts
Kari Kleinman

April Events

Students for Peace bring you "Life in Occupied Palestine: Eyewitness Stories and Photos" by Anna Baltzer, Monday April 20, 7:00-8:30pm NV 055

UW-Waukesha SGA will sponsor a blood drive on Tuesday April 7 from 9am-3pm in the Commons. Walk-ins will be accepted.

April 13—Lecture by Prof. Carmody "The Abstract Art of Franz Kafka" at noon in C101.

April 16—Lecture by Prof. Bassiouni "Glories of Ancient Egypt Tour: Spectacular Pictures" at noon in C101.

This academic year the library has reached more students than ever before in library instruction classes. We've taught 124 classes so far.

