The library will update the group study room (L112).

The library recently applied for and received a grant to improve the group study room (L112). After polling the students and investigating what other libraries were doing to improve student collaboration and study, the library came up these ideas. The plan is to have 2 group collaborative workstations. Each workstation will be able to seat at least 6 students. One workstation will be ADA compliant. The workstations will be equipped with electric and data lines. Each will have a flat screen TV that will double as a computer monitor. Students will be able to use their own personal laptops, iPads, or cell phones to connect with the keyboard and monitor to display, edit and collaborate on class projects. Students will be able to reserve the space to act as a group viewing station for class assigned DVD’s or on-line videos. Students will no longer have to lean over one computer to work on a project. We will also have two separate stand alone round tables for group work along with two 4x8 foot whiteboards.

Wireless printing now available!

Students and staff now have the ability to print directly from their wireless devices through the campus wireless network. You may send your print job to either the color or the black and white printer in the library. You may also send your jobs to the black and white printers in the Computer Center or the Academic Success Center. All you need to do is click on the wireless link on the library homepage, or go to the “quick links” section under “current students” on the campus webpage. You will then need to enter your campus username/password, follow the prompts, and you will be good to go.

Quiet things to do in the library besides study...

* Work on the jigsaw puzzle outside of L112
* Read a current popular magazine
* Take a nap on one of our couches
* Think of your future and browse the Careers Collection
* Shake Magic 8Ball @ front desk
* Check out a CD for your iPod
* Check out DVDs and headphones
* A Red, Red Rose
   By Robert Burns
   1779
   O my Luve's like a red, red rose
   That's newly sprung in June:
   O my Luve's like the melodie
   That's sweetly played in tune!
   As fair thou art, my bonnie lass,
   So deep in love am I:
   And I will love thee still, my dear,
   Till a' the seas gang dry:
   Till a' the seas gang dry, my dear,
   And the rocks melt with the sun;
   I will luve thee still my dear,
   When the sands of life shall run.
   And fare thee weel, my only Luve,
   And fare thee weel a while!
   And I will come again, my Luve,
   Tho' it were ten thousand mile.

Get your Student ID in the Library

The library will be taking photo student IDs now through Feb.7. Stop in the library Monday-Thursday between 10-2 and again from 4-6 to get your student ID.
This would be a good place to insert a short paragraph about your organization. It might include the purpose of the organization, its mission, founding date, and a brief history. You could also include a brief list of the types of products, services, or programs your organization offers, the geographic area covered (for example, western U.S. or European markets), and a profile of the types of customers or members served.

It would also be useful to include a contact name for readers who want more information about the organization.

Inside Story Headline

This story can fit 175-225 words.

If your newsletter is folded and mailed, this story will appear on the back. So, it’s a good idea to make it easy to read at a glance.

A question and answer session is a good way to quickly capture the attention of readers. You can either compile questions that you’ve received since the last edition or you can summarize some generic questions that are frequently asked about your organization.

A listing of names and titles of managers in your organization is a good way to give your newsletter a personal touch. If your organization is small, you may want to list the names of all employees.

If you have any prices of standard products or services, you can include a listing of those here. You may want to refer your readers to any other forms of communication that you’ve created for your organization.

You can also use this space to remind readers to mark their calendars for a regular event, such as a breakfast meeting for vendors every third Tuesday of the month, or a biannual charity auction.

If space is available, this is a good place to insert a clip art image or some other graphic.
